

DATA MODUL presents monitors with 4K resolution at G2E 2025

Munich, 28 August 2025

From 6 to 9 October 2025, DATA MODUL will be showcasing its latest display solutions for the gaming sector at the Global Gaming Expo (G2E) in Las Vegas. Highlights at booth #1941 include a 43" UHD PCAP open frame monitor and a 75" 4K LCD flat panel, which will be used as the target screen for the popular game 'PixelPuck' developed inhouse by DATA MODUL.

The 43" UHD PCAP open frame monitor impresses with its razor-sharp 4K resolution (3840 x 2160 pixels), a typical brightness of 500 cd/m² and a wide viewing angle of 89° from all directions. Precise PCAP touch recognition ensures responsive operation. The model supports both portrait and landscape orientation and has two HDMI and two DisplayPort inputs. In addition to the open frame version, a closed frame version is also available.

PixelPuck provides additional fun at the trade fair – this year with a new, large-format 75" 4K LCD flat screen as the target screen. With 3840 x 2160 pixels, a brightness of 600 cd/m² and high contrast, the display ensures a brilliant and detailed high score display that shows off the gameplay to its best advantage.

Both exhibits are part of a versatile product family available in diagonals from 43" to 85" – depending on the model, with PCAP touch or touch option, and in open and/or closed frame designs. This allows for flexible implementation in a wide variety of application scenarios.

Visitors to G2E 2025 can experience these and other innovations live from 6 to 9 October at the DATA MODUL stand #1941 in Las Vegas.
